ELIZABETH NUTTALL, the oldest sister of William Nuttall, was born four years before him. This is a record of Elizabeth's family to 1900 with historical information gleaned from research of the family and the history of England. The names in family units that are bold and capitalized are those children who married from each family.

James and Elizabeth married young—Elizabeth at age 17 and James at 18. His occupation was waterside carter at the time of his marriage and through 1843. A water carter is one who carried or delivered water. Although his occupation on the 1841 census was a farmer, it may have been as temporary employment working on a farm. He was also the enumerator for the 1841 census.

In the 1851, 1861 and 1871 censuses, James was a constable, a police officer of the lowest rank.

Elizabeth gave birth to 16 children. Four died before age 10. The rest lived to maturity but according to the records 3 died before marrying. Child number 2, Margaret, died at age 31 so there is a chance she married; but no record was found. She possibly worked as a house servant from age 17 till her death.

The family lived in Skerton, a village just across the River Lune,  $\frac{3}{4}$  mile north from Lancaster.

Life in England during the 19th Century was very difficult. Their earnings were barely enough for even the necessities of life. Their dwellings were small, very seldom more than 2 rooms. So with a large family like the Pyes they were quite crowded. The older children left home as soon as they could. In 1841 there were 5 children at home. So at any given time the most children at home would have been 5 to 7.

While Leonard John Nuttall was on his mission to England in 1874-75, he visited with his Uncle James Pye. He mentioned that James Pye accompanied him on some of his visits to family members.

James and Elizabeth lived to a nice old age which was unusual at that period of time. James died in 1875 at age 84. Elizabeth lived her last years with her son, John and his family. She died in 1881 at age 89.

Family found in 1841, 1851, 1861 and 1871 Census.

AGNES PYE, child No. 4, married James Nelson of Ulverston, 22 miles northwest of Lancaster. His occupation was hairdresser. In the 1841 and 1861 censuses, Agnes was also recorded as a hairdresser. This put them in the skilled working class.

James, a master hairdresser, had apprentices living with them through 1871 at least. His 2 sons also apprenticed with him. Hairdressing at this period of history was very elaborate and required great skill. The hair-dresser cuts and dresses ladies' and gentlemen's hair; he makes wigs and braids, and in most cases the business includes the art of shaving. The principal requisites of a hair-dresser are, a light hand, an aptness in catching the changing fashions of the times, and a taste to improve upon them.

They were the parents of 10 children of which 7 lived to maturity and 6 married. We could not find a record of a marriage or a death in the area for Edward Pye Nelson, child No. 6.

Both Agnes and James lived long lives. James died before 1891, being age 65 in 1881. Agnes was still alive in 1891 at age 75 and living on her own means. At that time her eldest daughter, Mary Elizabeth, was visiting; and Agnes granddaughter and grandson were with her.

From the diary of Richard Nuttall who was on a mission in England with his cousin, Leonard John Nuttall Jr., in 1885: " May 16, took a train for Ulverston from Lancaster. Called on Mrs. Agnes Nelson. Here we met Miss Lillie Robinson (Agnes Lucy) daughter of Mrs. M. E. Robinson, accompanied by her we go to the house of Mrs. Agnes Wood, daughter of Richard Rossall Pye where we rested for the night. On June 12 went to James Nelsons where we had tea then on to Barrow."

1 Md No. 2 1887 Oct MARY ELIZABETH ROBINSON ae 49 wid. md. EDWARD GRADWELL
ae 52 widower at Barrow in Furness.
Occupation of Edward: Newspaper Editor.

MARY ELIZABETH NELSON and her sister, Sarah Alice, moved to London and worked there as servants. Mary and Sarah probably knew someone in the London area as it was usual to go to places where either relatives or friends were living. Their Uncle Robert Kew arrived in the London area in 1867, but by then the girls were already married.

In 1862 Mary Elizabeth married William Robinson, a widower aged 34. William was a builder by trade and moved around in his employment. Their first child, a son, James Nelson, was born at Hornsey, Middlesex which is 5 ½ miles northeast from London. The second child, Mary, was born 2 years later at Lower Sydenham, County Kent, 8 ½ miles south -south-east from London. She was also known as Polly. Child No. 3, Agnes Lucy, was born at Stopham, Sussex, a fair distance south of London. Her nickname was "Lilly". The last known child, Esther Alice, was born at Clapham, Surrey, only 4 miles south of London in 1869.

Sometime after 1869 and before 1881 William Robinson died, leaving Mary Elizabeth a widow. In a country and a time where women have no rights and very limited opportunities for employment sufficient to provide for a family, this left her in a serious situation.

In 1881 we find Mary Elizabeth at age 42, a widow, living at Barrow-in-Furness, Lancashire, 8 miles southwest of Ulverston. She was employed as a domestic nurse in a family with 3 children. Her son, James N. Robinson, was living at Islington near London, age 17, and employed as a building clerk. Her daughter, Mary, was living with her Aunt Annie A. Hartley at Barrow-in-Furness. Mary was 16 and worked as an assistant grocer for her uncle. Agnes Lucy who was age 14 worked as a servant and was living at her grandparents home in Ulverston. The last daughter, Esther Alice, was living in Ulverston in a home as a lodger. She was 11 years old and a scholar.

A quote from a letter written to Mary Elizabeth December 20, 1882 from Leonard John Nuttall Sr.: "I can truly sympathize with you in your experiences with your late husband, to see a fine intelligent man take the course he did and know what the results thereof would bring about, is certainly very trying and enough to break down your constitution. There have been many such cases but none seem to be any warning for another. I sincerely trust that your eldest son, Nelson, in whom I seem to already have much interest will continue in the course he has seemed to mark out for himself, that in him and your other dear children you may have joy in your declining years."

Leonard John Nuttall Jr. and his cousin, Richard Nuttall, according to Richard's diary: "May 7, 1885 took a train to Bradford, Yorkshire. Here we had the good pleasure of seeing Mrs. Mary E. Robinson, daughter of Mrs. Agnes Nelson. Mrs. Robinson is now living at No. 10 Spring Place, Bradford with Mr. T. Ward. She received us cordially and made us welcome. Tea over, we took a walk through town. May 8 returning to Mr. Ward's had breakfast with Mrs. Robinson.” In June 1886, Mrs. Mary E. Robinson went to Liverpool, to see Richard and Leonard John off to the U.S. on SS Nevada.

In 1887 Mary Elizabeth married a 2nd time to Edward Gradwell at Barrow. He was a widower and worked as a newspaper sub-editor. By this time her son, James Nelson, was married and living in the London area. The location of Mary was unknown. In 1897 Agnes Lucy married at Liverpool at age 31. Her mother was one of the witnesses at her marriage. Esther Alice at age 22 married at Leeds, Yorkshire. The witnesses for her marriage were her brother, James, and sister, Agnes Lucy. This family really moved around.

Mary Elizabeth is the cousin that Leonard John Nuttall corresponded with in the early 1880's before her 2nd marriage. She provided him with family information during that period of time. Copies of the letters sent to Mary Elizabeth are at the BYU Library in the Special Collections.

SARAH ALICE NELSON who went to London with her sister, Mary Elizabeth, to work as a domestic servant, married Thomas Robinson, a brother to William, who married Mary Elizabeth. Sarah's husband was also a builder, but they remained at Haggerstone West, near London. Since Thomas was born at Ulverston, we also believe that his brother William was born there also. They may have been the contact that brought the girls to London.

Sarah Alice and Thomas were known to be the parents of three children.

RICHARD MOON NELSON, child No. 7, married at age 27 to Elizabeth Proctor and moved to Dalton, which is only a few miles west from Ulverston. He was also a hairdresser He died at age 41 at Ulverston.

From Richard Nuttall's diary: 1885, May 30 Richard and Leonard John then went to Dalton. On the way they went to Furness Abbey. Ruins of a church founded in 1127 during the reign of Henry II. At Dalton they called at Richard Nelsons and left their satchels.

1890 May son William Walter born Barrow in Furness.

1895 Jul son George Gilbert born Barrow in Furness.

Family found in 1881 and 1891 Census.

ANNIE ALMA NELSON married William Hartley. His first occupation was cabinet maker. They lived first at Southport where their first 2 children were born, 22 miles north of Liverpool.

The family then moved to Barrow-in-Furness, 8 miles southwest of Ulverston, where William became a grocer and later a master grocer. They remained in Barrow where they reared 9 of their 10 children.

They had a unique way of naming their children. They gave each child 2 names, both starting with the same letter (such as Annie Alma) making it easy to identify all the children.

On July 26, 1885 Richard Nuttall arrived in England for his mission with Leonard John Nuttall Jr. In Liverpool they called on Mrs. Hartley and Polly (Mary)Robinson. Since they lived at Barrow, the women may have been visiting relatives in Liverpool.

On May 22, 1885 Richard and Leonard John went to Barrow: “went to Mr. & Mrs. Hartley and stayed till late in the afternoon.” Then on June 14, 1885 at Barrow Richard and Leonard John called on Mrs. Hartley. Later August 6, 1885 at Liverpool: “called on Mrs. Hartley and Polly (Mary) Robinson to bid them good by.”

#10 1880 May ELIZA JANE NELSON ae 23 md. JOHN ATKINSON ae 28 at Ulverston. Occupation of John: Iron Monger. Couple found in 1881 Census.

ELIZA JANE NELSON, the last child of Agnes & James Nelson, married John Atkinson of Penrith, Cumberland. His occupation was iron monger, a dealer in metal utensils and hardware. In 1881 Eliza Jane was visiting her mother in Ulverston and John was at Penrith with his mother living with him. By 1891 they were not at Penrith or Ulverston. Since Atkinson is quite a common name in England it was difficult to locate where they had moved to.

In a letter dated December 1882 Leonard John wrote to Mary E. Robinson: "I was sorry to hear that your sister, Eliza Jane, has not been blessed with any family since her marriage."

June 17, 1885 Richard Nuttall and Leonard John Nuttall in Lancaster: "visited on Wednesday by Mrs. Atkinson, Agnes Nelson's daughter."

- # 5 1847 Feb dau Alice Jane born Liverpool 1848 Mar died ae 1.

1855 Aug father, John Hall, died ae 36 at Lancaster.

1856 Mar mother, Alice Hall, died ae 37 at Skerton

ALICE PYE gave birth to a daughter, Margaret, christened at Skerton. Then a little over a year later she married John Hall at Lancaster. His occupation was mechanic. Their 4 known children were all christened at St. Peters in Liverpool. This family was in Liverpool at the same time as Alice's Uncle William Nuttall.

By 1856 both parents had died leaving Margaret age about 17, Elizabeth age 15, Thomas age 12, William age 11, and Alice Jane age 9. Since both parents died in Skerton, we assume that is where the children were living at the time. Probably the children were cared for by family members. The name "Hall" is very common in England so we have found nothing more of the children except for Elizabeth who married George Pittaway.

#2. 1863 Jun ELIZABETH HALL ae 22 md. GEORGE PITTAWAY ae 28 at Lancaster.

Occupation of George: Butler.

1866 Dec dau HARRIETT born Lancaster.

Bowness. Occupation of John: Iron Monger.

1896 Nov ROSE ALICE PITTAWAY ae 20 md. THOMAS DOBSON ae 22
at Windermere. Occupation of Thomas: Grocer

ELIZABETH HALL (age 22) married George Pittaway (age 28) in 1863 at Lancaster. George's occupation was given as servant. Later records gave the occupation as butler. The butler was usually the head servant in a large home.

The Pittaway family moved to Bowness in the parish of Windermere, County Westmoreland. On the shores of Lake Windermere were large estates. We assume George was employed. Since a butler's first responsibility was to the family that he served, he may not have spent as much time with his own family. He was not at home in the 1881 census.

The family lived at the village of Undermilbeck. In 1871 they had 2 lodgers living with them and a house servant. Their cottage was either on or near the estate where George was employed.

The three older children married. George and Elizabeth lived long lives. Elizabeth died at age 61 and George lived to age 79. Both died at Bowness.

Friday morning June 5, 1885 Richard and L. John began a visit of the beautiful Lake District, doing missionary and holding street meetings along the way. They visited Carnforth, Sandside, Kendall and on Saturday reached Bowness. "Here we called on our estimable and genial lady friend Mrs. Pittaway and her daughter at Field Cottage." They spent until Tuesday at Bowness and called several times at the Pittaway's

8	1864 Oct son Alfred George born Liverpool. Family in 1861 Census.	1870 Dec died ae 6.

1878 Feb father, James Gilbraith died ae 73.

MARY PYE evidently went to Liverpool and stayed with her Uncle William Nuttall. Leonard John said of her that she was like a sister to him. Probably while living with the Nuttall's she met and married James Gilbraith (also spelled Galbraith) who was age 40 and a widower. They were married at St. Bride's Church in Liverpool. James was listed in the Liverpool Directory 1848 through 1877 as a Ship Smith. At this period of time the shipbuilding trade was changing from wooden vessels to iron, putting the old shipwrights out of work. Their residence was on Stanhope Street in Toxteth Park in the general area where William and Mary Nuttall lived.

They were the parents of 8 children. Of the 8, only the 2 girls lived long enough to marry. The father, James, died in `1878 at the age of 69. In the 1881 census Mary Galbraith had 3 boarders.

A quote from a letter Leonard John sent to Mary Elizabeth Robinson December 1882. "You say that your Aunt Mary has had her share of trouble. She has indeed had a sorrowful time in her life and not any of it deserving on her part, for she is truly a good woman."

There is a problem very common among the men of England. Since the water was so bad to drink, many drank ale. This created a problem of addiction to alcohol and drunkenness. This could be the problem of both Mary's husband and also of her niece Mary Elizabeth's husband.

From Richard Nuttall Diary: (this was upon the arrival of Richard in England) "Friday May 1st 1885. After about three hours search I found Mrs. Mary Galbraith, Father's cousin, at 44 Merlin St., Liverpool. Had dinner with her and was treated well." When Richard and Leonard John were again in Liverpool August 1st they "called to see Mrs. Mary Galbraith who received us kindly." "Saturday April 17 1886 with cousin Leonard went to see Mrs. Mary Galbraith." Then on Saturday June 26, 1886 she was at the dock to see Richard and Leonard John off on SS Nevada.

In the 1881 census his occupation changed to that of publican, the owner or manager of an inn or a pub. They were well enough off in 1881 to have a servant in their home.

7 1881 Mar GEORGINA GALBRAITH ae 21 md. JOHN BRANTINGHAM ae 23 at Toxteth

GEORGINA GALBRAITH married John Brantingham, a gardener, March 1881. In the 1881 census they are living in Claughton, Lancashire near the town of Lancaster. His occupation was domestic gardener. He was probably working at an estate. Since they were not located in 1891 at Claughton or Blackburn, they will be extremely difficult to locate.

RICHARD ROSSALL PYE was living in Ulverston. His sister, Agnes Nelson, also lived there when he married Betsy Fleming, a widow with a daughter, Isabella. His occupation at the time was cooper, a person skilled in the making and repairing of wooden barrels. He also made other items, such as casks, tubs, vats, buckets and bowls.

They lived in Ulverston and were the parents of three girls, the eldest died at age 2. Sometime between 1852 and 1859 the family moved to Poulton-le-Fylde, west of Preston. The mother Betsy died there.

Richard then met and married Hannah Newton at Blackburn where his sister, Eliza Appleby, lived. They were the parents of three children, all born in Fylde. The first child, Elizabeth, died at age 2.

In July of 1865 Richard Rossall (age 39) was drowned at Singleton in the River Wyre, leaving Hannah with 2 children, ages 5 and 2, and one on the way (who was born 3 months later). Then the next year the three children died, one in March and 2 in December. Life was very difficult. Hannah did remarry in Blackburn.

The 2 girls, Agnes and Margaret, from Richard's first marriage were ages 12 and 15 at the time of their father's death. Since their mother was from near Ulverston they probably returned to that area and resided with relatives of their mother or were put to work as domestic servants.

Minnie, an orphan, moved to Blackburn to live with cousin, Mary Cleminson.

JANE PYE worked as a domestic servant according to the 1851 and `1861 censuses. At age 40 she married William Coward, a widower. He was from Preston and was a builder by trade, so they made their home at Preston.

Because quite a few of our relatives worked as domestic servants, I would like to explain some background on this occupation. Domestic service thrived in England for two main reasons. First, economic necessity forced larger poor families to put their children, meaning mostly daughters, into service as one of the few means of feeding and clothing them, and putting a roof over their heads. Second, servants "knew their place" and accepted it as their lot to "serve their betters". In the 1800's they were not as badly off as children who went into service half a century earlier.

They slept in barely-furnished attics and lived and worked in the dark, lower regions of the big, stately homes. They were treated abominably by our present standards. They often worked from before dawn until 9:00 at night. If they had good employers, they might get half day off a week. No respectable villa in the suburbs was without its maid or maids, and the majority of those “in service” in Britain were employed by the middle classes, not the aristocracy.

At age 42 Jane was fortunate to have a baby. Minnie was born 2 years after their marriage. When Minnie was age 12, her father died at age 69. According to one of Leonard John’s letters, Jane was disabled and died 3 months later and leaving Minnie an orphan at age 13. Leonard John Nuttall wrote and offered to pay the expenses for her to come to America and live with him. But she went to Blackburn to live with her cousin, Mary Elizabeth Cleminson.

From a letter to Mary E. Robinson from Leonard John Nuttall dated March 1883. “How grieved I am to hear of the great affliction that has fallen upon your Aunt Jane in the death of her husband and her being stricken with paralytic strokes.”

JOHN PYE did not marry until age 28. His occupations were breakman, silk dresser and shipyard labor, indicating he was not skilled. He may have moved around even before his marriage which took place at Carlisle, Cumberland, where he was working for the railroad. His son Charles was born there.

We next find John living at Skerton in 1881 and his mother, now a widow, is living with him and his family. By 1891 John and Grace are living at Barrow-in-Furnace where other relatives lived. He worked at the shipyards. His son Charles died in 1883, age 18, at Barrow.
